

Research Assistant II (Ref: 2400900)
Department of Science and Environmental Studies

Project Title: Study of microplastic biofilm-facilitated transfer and enrichment of aquatic pathogens and antibiotic resistance in Hong Kong waters, and potential mechanisms

[Appointment Period: 12 months]

The appointee will participate in research projects related to the topics of (1) microplastic biofilm and (2) aquatic pathogens and antibiotic resistance. The major duties include conducting a literature review, collecting samples from the coastal environment and sample processing, DNA/RNA extraction, PCR analysis and sequencing, and performing data analysis. They will also be responsible for drafting reports, papers, and proposals for submission, carrying out general administrative duties, and performing any other duties as assigned. The appointment will be for a period of around 12 months, with the possibility of renewal subject to mutual agreement.

Applicants should have a bachelor's degree or above. Relevant research experience in (1) pollution monitoring and (2) environmental microbiology is preferred. Preference will also be given to applicants with good knowledge of marine pollution-related research, experience in field work, and the ability to work independently with minimal direct supervision. They should also be a good team player, attentive to details, highly self-motivated, and able to work under pressure. Immediate availability is preferred.
