

Research Assistant I (Ref: 2401214)
Department of Science and Environmental Studies

Project Title: Study of microplastic biofilm-facilitated transfer and enrichment of aquatic pathogens and antibiotic resistance in Hong Kong waters, and potential mechanisms

[Appointment Period: 8 months]

The appointee will assist the project investigator in coordinating research projects on assessing plasmid-mediated antibiotic resistance gene transmission in wastewater treatment systems. The primary duties include reviewing the literature, conducting experiments, performing data analysis, and preparing manuscripts for publication. They will also be responsible for drafting reports and proposals for submission and performing any other duties as assigned. The appointment will be for around 8 months, with the possibility of renewal subject to mutual agreement.

Applicants should have a Bachelor's Degree or above. Relevant research experience in (1) bioinformatics (e.g., (meta)genomics) and (2) environmental microbiology is preferred. Preference will also be given to applicants with the above research experience, and the ability to work independently with minimal direct supervision. They should also be a good team player, attentive to details, highly self-motivated, and able to work under pressure. Immediate availability is preferred.
